THE CITY OF CHARLOTTE

The striking skyline of Charlotte makes a great and lasting first impression. The remarkable and varied architecture symbolizes a diverse city that means business and characterizes the progress and opportunity of the New South. With a population of 625,000, Charlotte is one of the most rapidly growing metropolitan areas and ranks as the nation's 21st largest city.

Charlotte is a dynamic city that combines world-class amenities with Southern hospitality. Exciting restaurants, thriving arts and cultural attractions, professional sports, tree-lined Center City streets, lakes, parks and excellent shopping make Charlotte a first-rate city with small town charm.

The city is the second largest financial center in the United States, behind only New York, and headquarters to the nation's largest (Bank of America) and fourth-largest (Wachovia) bank holding companies. Approximately $900 billion in financial assets are managed in the Queen City and more than 300 of the Fortune 500 companies have an office location in Charlotte.

Charlotte's reference as the Queen City is owed to Queen Charlotte, wife of England's King George III. In 1762, settlers in the Carolina colony honored King George's new wife, Charlotte Sophia of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, by giving a newly-formed county the name Mecklenburg. When a town was established within the county in 1768, founders named it "Charlotte Town" in an attempt to win favor.

The intersection of Trade and Tryon streets in Center City provides a link between the past and the present, as symbolic bronze sculptures preside over the four corners. A female textile worker characterizes industry, an African-American railroad worker signifies transportation, a gold miner symbolizes commerce and a woman holding a baby represents the optimistic future of the city.

In addition to the Sting, Charlotte is home to numerous sports options. The NBA Charlotte Bobcats recently completed their inaugural season and the NFL Carolina Panthers were the 2003 NFC Champions. The region is a hotbed for NASCAR racing with Lowe's Motor Speedway a regular stop on the circuit. PGA Golf comes to town in May for the Wachovia Championship and the Meineke Car Care Bowl takes place in December. Charlotte is also home to the Triple-A Charlotte Knights, the ECHL Charlotte Checkers and the Charlotte Eagles pro soccer team.

Majority Owner

Robert L. Johnson made history as the first African-American to become the majority owner of a professional sports organization when the NBA Board of Governors granted him the expansion Charlotte NBA franchise on January 10, 2003. Johnson also immediately assumed ownership of the WNBA's Charlotte Sting.

Johnson moved swiftly to assemble the NBA's 30th franchise and prepare the Sting for their upcoming 2003 season. He also broke ground on the New Charlotte Arena in Uptown Charlotte.

Along with the two professional basketball teams, Johnson founded two new ventures in the Carolinas. Johnson created the Charlotte Jumper Classic, an elite Grand Prix horse show jumping competition to be held annually in the Queen City, and also formed a regional sports and entertainment television network for North and South Carolina, called C-SET (Carolinas Sports Entertainment Television).

Johnson's impact in Charlotte began immediately as he donated $1 million toward building the West Boulevard YMCA. Sports Illustrated honored him as the most influential minority in sports in 2003 and he was named the 2003 Newsmaker of the Year by The Charlotte Post. The Sporting News also tabbed him the second-most powerful owner in sports for 2003.

Starting a large business from the beginning is not new for Johnson. He founded Black Entertainment Television in 1980 as a cable television network to serve the information and entertainment needs of African-Americans. It is now the leading African-American-operated media and entertainment entity in the United States, reaching 75 million homes.

In 2000, Johnson sold BET to Viacom, Inc for approximately $3 billion, and formed the RLJ Companies, where he owns or holds interest in companies operating in the hospitality/restaurant, real estate, fast food, gaming and entertainment/media industries.

From 1976 to 1979, Johnson served as vice president of government relations for the National Cable & Telecommunications Association (NCTA), a trade association representing more than 1,500 cable television companies. Prior to joining the NCTA, Johnson was press secretary for the Honorable Walter E. Fauntroy, Congressional Delegate from the District of Columbia. Johnson previously held positions at the Washington Urban League and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Johnson is very active in the business community, serving on the board of directors for US Airways, Hilton Hotels, General Mills, United Negro College Fund, National Cable Television Association and the American Film Institute. Johnson is a Board of Governor for the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in Cleveland and a Board of Trustee for the Brookings Institution. Johnson also sits on the Board of Directors of the Lowe's Companies, Inc.

Winner of the 1997 Hall of Fame Award by Broadcasting & Cable Magazine, Johnson has been honored with Cablevision Magazine's 20/20 Vision Award, which lists him as one of the twenty most influential people in the cable industry, an NAACP Image Award, President's Award from the National Cable & Telecommunications Association, CTAM's Grand Tam Award, National Women's Political Caucus' Good Guys Award and a Distinguished Alumni Award from Princeton University.

Johnson is a graduate of the University of Illinois and holds a master's degree in International Affairs from the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University. Johnson maintains residences in Washington, D.C. and Charlotte, and is the father of a daughter, Paige, and a son, Brett.

ED TAPSCOTT

President / Chief Operating Officer

A dynamic personality and well-versed in professional basketball, Ed Tapscott was named chief operating officer of the Charlotte Bobcats and Sting on January 6, 2003. Just days after being granted an NBA expansion franchise, Robert L. Johnson turned to Tapscott to direct the organization's basketball and business operations.

Tapscott immediately immersed himself into building the NBA's 30th team and also preparing the Charlotte Sting for a season that was only months away. Two of his first hires were Bernie Bickerstaff as general manager and Trudi Lacey as head coach and assistant general manager. Tapscott promoted Lacey to general manager on November 19, 2003, after Bickerstaff was hired to lead the Bobcats.

In his first season with the organization, the Sting placed second in the Eastern Conference and qualified for the playoffs for the sixth time in the franchise's seven-year history, one of only two teams to own that distinction.

Under Tapscott's direction, the NBA team created an identity - the Bobcats name, logo and color scheme were announced on June 11, 2003 - hired Bickerstaff, began construction on the state-of-the-art New Charlotte Arena and embraced a Charlotte community that has welcomed the organization with open arms.

In addition to the professional basketball entities, Tapscott oversees the operation of C-SET, a regional sports television network for North and South Carolina. C-SET is home to Bobcats and Sting games and programming, plus expansive coverage of professional, college and high school sports in the two states.

By spending countless time in the community, Tapscott formed relationships that have earned the organization rave reviews from the NBA, WNBA, city leaders and the Charlotte population.

He serves on the boards of the United Way, Urban League, UNCC Belk College of Business, Charlotte Center City Partners, Charlotte Chamber of Commerce, Johnson C. Smith University Board of Visitors, The Greater YMCA and Winston Salem State University Leadership School.

Tapscott brings a wealth of experience to the expansion franchise, having served in a variety of basketball roles for the past 25 years. He was vice president of player personnel and basketball operations and served as interim president and general manager of the New York Knicks during the 1990's, when the team made two trips to the NBA Finals (1994 and 1999) and advanced to at least the second round of the playoffs every year. In addition, Tapscott worked as a front office consultant to the Milwaukee Bucks and Phoenix Suns.

Tapscott's career in basketball first began in 1978 as an assistant coach at American University. Tapscott was elevated to the head coach position in 1982 and he guided the Eagles to more victories than any other coach in the program's history.

He left the school in 1990 to become a player agent for Advantage International in Washington, DC, and worked with the firm for one year before joining the Knicks staff.

Prior to joining the Charlotte franchise, he worked as an on-air television analyst for Fox Sports and Comcast Sports Net. His duties included covering the NBDL and the Washington Wizards.

Tapscott completed his undergraduate and graduate studies at Tufts University, where he also played basketball for Coach Tom Penders. Tapscott completed his legal education at the Washington College of Law at American University.

A native of Washington, D.C., Tapscott and his wife, Janis Thomas, are proud parents of a daughter, Logan.

She advanced from chief financial officer to president of Benchmark Communications in a four-year stint from 1993-96 and prior to that, she held a career in public accounting.

Prior to coming to Charlotte, Silberman was president and CEO of Panamerican Sports Stadiums, where he was responsible for building a soccer stadium in Brazil.

Silberman was president and CEO of Centre Management, an arena management company that supervised event bookings and relationships at the MCI Center in Washington, D.C. The company also managed the operations of numerous arenas such as the Capital Centre, Baltimore Arena, the Patriot Center, the Cleveland State University Convocation Center and the Springfield, MA Civic Center.

As president of entertainment and development of Washington Sports and Entertainment, he was intimately involved in the creation and opening of the MCI Center, and managed the organization's relationships with governmental and transportation agencies, unions, concessionaires and community and special interest groups.

In addition, Smul works closely with the Bobcats and Sting general managers on salary cap management issues.

Smul joined the Bobcats and Sting from the NBA and WNBA league office, where he worked for eight years in a variety of capacities, most recently as vice president of league development. He led a task force that developed an ownership model for the WNBA, allowing for ownership by non-NBA franchises. Additionally, he was responsible for researching and analyzing WNBA expansion cities, identifying prospective team owners and negotiating with expansion candidates.

Some of his other work within the NBA included the start up and management teams for the WNBA and the NBA's minor league, the National Basketball Development League. He began working at the league office in 1995 as the manager of business planning, a role in which he implemented a business planning and budgeting process for the league.

Smul also worked at Credit Suisse First Boston and Mercer Management Consulting, a general strategy consulting firm. He serves on the Boards of Discovery Place and the Jewish Community Center.

A graduate of Yale University in 1987, Smul earned an MBA from Harvard Business School in 1992. He and his wife Debra have seven-year old twins, Jack and Lucie.

TRUDI LACEY

General Manager & Head Coach

Entering her fifth season with the team, Trudi Lacey serves as general manager and head coach of the Charlotte Sting. She has served in the dual roles since November 19, 2003, and is responsible for all basketball-related decisions for the franchise.

Lacey orchestrated several moves this past offseason, acquiring Sheri Sam via free agency and obtaining Helen Darling and Tangela Smith through trades. She also selected Janel McCarville with the first overall selection in the 2005 WNBA Draft.

In her first two seasons, Lacey has guided the team to a 34-34 record. In her first year at the helm in 2003, her squad posted an 18-16 record and reached the WNBA playoffs.

During her time as an assistant coach in 2001 and 2002, the Sting posted a 36-28 record, advancing to the WNBA playoffs both years. Lacey helped engineer one of the greatest in-season turnarounds in professional sports history in 2001 when Charlotte opened the season by going 1-10, only to close the campaign on a 17-4 run. They topped that regular-season finish by defeating the number one and two seeds in the Eastern Conference during the playoffs to reach the WNBA Finals.

Prior to joining the WNBA, Lacey was involved with USA Basketball as a player, coach and committee member. As assistant director of women's programs beginning in 1997, Lacey assisted in the development and implementation of all women's programs pertaining to trials, training camps and international competitions. She also worked closely with the Men's and Women's National Teams, where they both won gold medals during the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia.

Lacey's coaching career began at her alma mater, N.C. State, in 1983. She has also coached at the University of Maryland, the University of South Florida, NAIA Francis Marion College, Manhatten College and James Madison University.

Off the court, Lacey is president and founder of LifeCoach Designs, LLC, a personal and business consulting company. She is also very involved in the community, serving on the Board of Directors for "A Child's Place" and on the Wade Trophy Committee for the WBCA. She actively supports the Dawn Staley Foundation, the Susan G. Komen Foundation, Samaritan Purse, Girl Scouts, Tri-County Animal Rescue and the YMCA.

Lacey has also worked as a television analyst for ESPN, FoxSports Net and C-SET. She is a member of the WBCA, BCA and the EWGA.

A star player at North Carolina State University, Lacey was honored as a Women's Sports Foundation and National Scouting Service All-American in 1980 and had her jersey retired in 2000.

A Rhodes Scholar nominee, Reeve received both a MAAC Scholar-Athlete Post Graduate Award and a NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarship in 1988. She went on to earn her master's degree in business administration from her alma mater while also serving two years as an assistant coach for the Explorers.

SEASON in REVIEW

The 2004 season was one of many ups and downs for the Charlotte Sting. Much of the year was spent battling for first place in the Eastern Conference standings. The Sting sat atop the leaderboard on several occasions throughout the year, but in the end their efforts came up just short as they finished in fifth place with a 16-18 record, just one game out of the playoffs. In fact, only three games separated first place from last place in the Eastern Conference.

The Sting opened their eighth season with a redesigned logo and new team colors. Drawing upon the color scheme of their NBA counterpart Charlotte Bobcats, the official colors of the Sting changed to orange, blue, silver and black. The Sting became the first WNBA team to wear orange uniforms on the road. In addition to these changes, the offseason saw head coach Trudi Lacey add the role of general manager to her duties and Cheryl Reeve rejoin the club as lead assistant.

On April 17, 2004, Charlotte took advantage of one of the deepest WNBA drafts ever to select several noteworthy players. With the third overall pick, the Sting selected Nicole Powell, a three-time Kodak All-American from Stanford. The team added another three-time All-American in Penn State's Kelly Mazzante with the 18th overall pick. Jia Perkins, a guard out of Texas Tech University, was taken with the Sting's third round pick.

These young players were added to a roster that included veterans Dawn Staley, Andrea Stinson, Allison Feaster, Tynesha Lewis, Teana Miller, Charlotte Smith-Taylor and Tammy Sutton-Brown. The team also added veterans Olympia Scott-Richardson, Mery Andrade and newcomer Tera Bjorklund.

The Sting went through streaks all season long - winning two of three games to open the season, winning eight of ten through June and July and losing four in a row on two occasions. As the WNBA entered it's month-long hiatus for the Olympics in August, the Sting sat in a tie for second place in the Eastern Conference with a 12-13 record. The Sting came back from the break strong, winning four of their six games to put them in a first-place tie with Connecticut. The Sting dropped their final three games of the season, however, and missed out on a playoff berth for only the second time in franchise history.

Several outstanding performances highlighted the 2004 season for the Sting:

- On June 20, the Sting hit two buzzer-beaters to hold off the Los Angeles Sparks. Nicole Powell hit a three-pointer at the end of regulation and Tynesha Lewis connected from three-point land at the end of the first overtime to help the Sting capture a thrilling double-overtime victory.
- On June 26, the Sting held the Indiana Fever to only 37 points and nine field goals made. It was the lowest point total ever allowed by the Sting and a new WNBA record for fewest field goals allowed.

- On Dawn Staley Olympian Send-off Night on July 24, the Sting recorded their third largest margin of victory in franchise history, defeating the Washington Mystics by 29 points (70-41).
- On Saturday, September 11, the Sting set a new WNBA record as they outscored the Minnesota Lynx 21-0 to open the game. This broke the record of consecutive points to begin a game - held by the San Antonio Silver Stars who opened their game on August 9, 2003 outscoring the L.A. Sparks 18-0.

Several Sting players also accomplished individual feats during the 2004 season:

- Dawn Staley participated in the 2004 Olympics in Athens, Greece. A three-time Olympian, Staley was elected to be the flag bearer for the United States in the opening ceremonies, becoming the first American basketball player to hold such an honor. Staley helped her team win the gold medal, also marking the third time she has earned Olympic gold.
- Allison Feaster was selected as a member of the WNBA All-Star Squad. The WNBA All-Star Squad faced the United States Women's National Team on August 5 in a game held at Radio City Music Hall in New York City.
- Tammy Sutton-Brown set a franchise record with six blocked shots on July 28 at Indiana. She also recorded her 196th career blocked shot to become the franchise leader in that category. Sutton-Brown finished the year ranked second in the league in blocked shots (2.09 bpg).
- Charlotte Smith-Taylor led the league in three-point field goal percentage shooting 50.0% (29-58) from behind the arc.

On April 24, 1996, women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June 1997.

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA: Val Ackerman -- the first president of the WNBA; Sheryl Swoopes -- the first player signed to the WNBA; Cynthia Cooper --the league's first Most Valuable Player; the Houston Comets -- the first WNBA Champions; Lisa Leslie -- the first WNBA player to dunk.

However, the very first for the league was a "to-do list." With less than 15 months to tipoff, a league of its own began to unfold for the WNBA as each task was completed. The history of the WNBA follows:

ON THE AIR...

Before a player was signed or a staff member was in place, the league announced its broadcast partnerships with NBC, ESPN and Lifetime Television. It was decided that the WNBA season would be played in the summer when the sports calendar was less crowded and the games could be televised live. During a successful inaugural season, more than 50 million viewers watched WNBA games on the three networks.

ESPN2 joined NBC and ESPN to televise WNBA games beginning in 2001 and carried live coverage of the WNBA Draft. Lifetime, which had carried games during the first four seasons, continued as a partner through 2002.

Oxygen Media signed on to televise WNBA games in 2002, and ABC Sports became a new partner through a six-year agreement that extended the WNBA's national television coverage through 2008. Telemundo, the fastest growing Spanish language television network in the U.S., and NBA TV, the league's 24-hour television network, also joined ABC, ESPN, ESPN2 and Oxygen in carrying WNBA games beginning with the 2003 season.

WNBA games and programming reached the largest global audience since the league's inception in 2004, with WNBA content broadcast to 188 countries in 30 languages. The league delivers an audience unique in sports. In-arena, gender breakdown is approximately 80-20 female-male. The TV audience is about 50-50 female-male, with a strong percentage of non-adult viewers.

The 2004 season opened with a bang when University of Connecticut star Diana Taurasi started her much anticipated professional basketball career with the Phoenix Mercury. ABC's first televised game of the season was Phoenix at the Connecticut Sun. The telecast was the highest rated WNBA game (regular season or playoffs) ever on ABC.

THE PLAYERS AND THE TEAM...

The first of the player signings was announced on October 23, 1996, with Sheryl Swoopes and Rebecca Lobo joining the league. The duo was soon followed by Lisa Leslie, Ruthie Bolton, Cynthia Cooper, Andrea Stinson, Michele Timms (the first international player) and many other hopefuls.

Eight teams were announced for the league's inaugural season. The Eastern Conference consisted of the Charlotte Sting, Cleveland Rockers, Houston Comets and New York Liberty while the Western Conference was comprised of the Los Angeles Sparks, Phoenix Mercury, Sacramento Monarchs and Utah Starzz.

On April 29, 1999, the WNBA and the Women's National Basketball Players Association (WNBPA) announced the league's first Collective Bargaining Agreement — a first of its kind in women's team sports.

By 2000, the league had expanded to 16 teams, with the Detroit Shock and Washington Mystics joining the league in 1998, the Minnesota Lynx and Orlando Miracle in 1999, and the Indiana Fever, Miami Sol, Portland Fire and Seattle Storm in 2000.

The 2002 season saw 176 women play pro basketball in 256 regular-season WNBA games (schedule history: 34 games in 2003; 32 games from 1999-2002; 30 in 1998; 28 in 1997). Continuing to showcase talented stars from around the world, the league featured 45 players from 22 countries.

In October 2002, the NBA Board of Governors voted to restructure the WNBA to allow individual team ownership, and to allow teams to be owned by non-NBA owners and located in non-NBA markets. Orlando, Miami, Portland and Utah elected not to assume ownership of their teams, and in December, the WNBA announced the relocation of the Utah Starzz to San Antonio, which had previously been awarded a WNBA franchise. The team would be named the Silver Stars.

On January 28, 2003, the Connecticut Sun were awarded the Orlando Miracle and became the newest WNBA franchise, with the Mohegan Tribe of Indians becoming the first non-NBA owner in league history.

On April 25, 2003, the WNBA and the WNBAPA signed its second Collective Bargaining Agreement which gave WNBA players the first free agency rights in women's professional team sports.

On September 19, 2003, the Cleveland Cavaliers/Gund Arena Company announced that they would no longer operate the Cleveland Rockers.

THE WNBA DRAFT . . .

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the inaugural WNBA Draft. Margo Dydek, a 7-2 center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starzz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdsclaw was the Washington Mystics' No. 1 selection in the 1999 Draft. In 2000, the Cleveland Rockers selected Ann Wauters from Belgium as the 1st overall pick, and Australian Olympian Lauren Jackson went to the Seattle Storm with the No. 1 selection in 2001.

In 2002, National Player of the Year Sue Bird was selected by Seattle, who had the top pick for the second consecutive year by virtue of the WNBA's first Draft Lottery, held in New York on November 13, 2001. The Cleveland Rockers made Latoya Thomas of Mississippi State the No. 1 selection in the 2003 WNBA Draft held Friday, April 25, 2003.

The 2004 first overall pick has come to be known as the worst kept secret in the history of the WNBA Draft when the Phoenix Mercury selected University of Connecticut star and three-time NCAA Champion Diana Taurasi.

The Charlotte Sting beat the odds to win the Draft Lottery on December 1, 2004, and held the top overall pick in the 2005 WNBA Draft on Saturday, April 16, 2005. With the top pick the Sting selected Janel McCarville from the University of Minnesota.

THE LOGOS AND THE UNIFORMS...

With players and teams in place, the league began its next task of creating logos and uniforms. The red, white and blue official WNBA logo — "Logo Woman" — was selected from approximately 50 design options. After developing an extensive list of choices, the team names were selected by the league and teams based on factors including: a tie to the NBA team name in that market, a link to a key characteristic of the city or state and/or the creation of a name fitting the current sports landscape. The uniforms also underwent several design changes, and on May 21, 1997, the WNBA unveiled the team uniforms.

On May 1, 2003, the WNBA and Reebok unveiled new uniform designs which were created to maximize performance and provide optimal comfort for the players. The jerseys are tapered to fit a woman's body and are designed to be worn untucked, providing free range of motion for the players. The new uniforms features flat-back mesh material that incorporates Play Dry™ technology.

IT'S A BALL GAME. . . .

The start of the 2004 season brought some changes in the WNBA rules with the three-point line moving from 19-feet, nine inches to the international length of 20-feet, 6 ? -inches, and the lane widening from 12-feet to the NBA width of 16-feet. The WNBA game also consists of a 30-second clock, two 20-minute halves, eleven-player rosters and a collegiate-regulation size ball. The WNBA's signature orange-and-oatmeal basketball by Spalding is 28.5 inches in circumference and one inch smaller than the NBA's regulation ball. In January 2003, Spalding Sports Worldwide and the WNBA announced the Spalding WNBA Infusion basketball, featuring a built-in, dual action Micro Pump®, as the new official game ball of the league.

MILLIONS OF FANS JOIN IN...

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997, with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, Calif.. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks 67-57. Then on August 22, the WNBA league attendance surpassed the 1 million mark at America West Arena in Phoenix. In 2001, the WNBA welcomed its 10 millionth fan on September 1 at the STAPLES Center in Los Angeles. In 2002, more than 2.5 million fans attended WNBA games, as regular-season attendance averaged more than 9,000 fans for the sixth straight season. In 2004, the WNBA season attendance topped the 2 million mark for the sixth consecutive year.

On May 31, 2003 WNBA.com featured the first-ever live video webcast of a game in women's professional sports history when the Detroit Shock played the Charlotte Sting. The success of the groundbreaking webcast led to the launch of WNBA Broadband Season Pass, a multimedia subscription service featuring 10 additional live webcasts of WNBA games and WNBA Season Audio Pass with broadband highlights and features.

Overall, the popularity of WNBA.com continues to soar. During the 2004 season, WNBA.com averaged more than 60,000 visits per day.

WE GOT GAME . . .

With the growth of the WNBA, the sport continues to grow in popularity and set new standards for what women athletes, and women in general, can achieve.

The Charlotte Sting and the WNBA are deeply committed to creating programs that improve the quality of life for all people, with a special emphasis on promoting a healthy lifestyle and positive body image, breast health awareness, reading and youth programs. The Sting participate in WNBA programs and initiatives as well as their own community outreach efforts.

WNBA BE SMART – BE FIT – BE YOURSELF

The WNBA will embrace its responsibility as the preeminent women's professional sports league with powerful role models who continue to deliver important messages and programs related to the areas of health, fitness, nutrition and self esteem.

WNBA Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself will encourage teens and women of all ages to learn more about their bodies and the importance of physical fitness. Programming has been developed to encourage teens and women to get started on "being fit" through small changes in their daily regimen.

The 2005 season marks the first year for the Be Smart - Be Fit - Be Yourself program and it will serve as a year-long "call to action" for teens and women to make a commitment to being fit and healthy.

READ TO ACHIEVE

Read to Achieve is a year-round, league-wide initiative supported by NBA, WNBA and NBDL teams that promotes the values of reading and on-line literacy and encourages families and adults to read regularly with young children. The program includes thousands of reading timeouts, the donation of books and literacy materials, and the creation of Reading and Learning Centers and Reading Corners throughout the world.

National and local All-Star Reading Teams have been formed consisting of current and former NBA and WNBA players and other members of the NBA and WNBA family, who promote reading efforts through in-arena events, public service announcements and school and community appearances throughout the year.

BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS

The WNBA Breast Health Awareness program focuses on generating awareness and educating women about breast cancer in addition to raising funds for the initiative. 2005 will mark the third season of the partnership between the WNBA and The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation. In 2004, the WNBA and its teams raised nearly $200,000 to benefit the Komen Foundation. The highlights of the partnership are a pair of online auctions, held in July and October where fans have the opportunity to log on to bid on their favorite

WNBA and NBA items. All proceeds from these items, including games of HORSE with WNBA and NBA stars, All-Star memorabilia and autographed items, will benefit The Susan G. Komen Breast Cancer Foundation.

JR. NBA/JR. WNBA

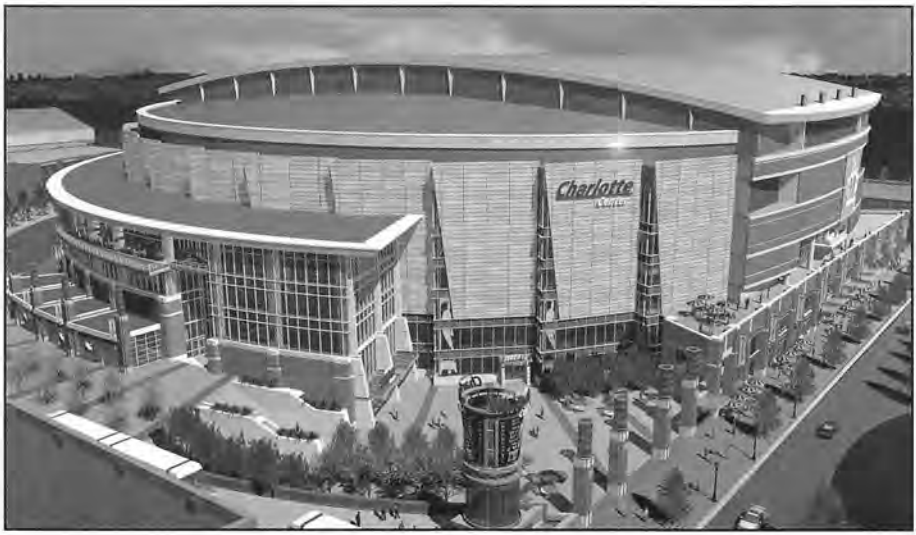
The Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA believes that lessons learned on- and off-the-court as a member of a team are lessons that are infinitely useful in building relationships at school, home and work. By stressing fundamental skill development, teamwork, sportsmanship and positive adult participation, the Jr. NBA/Jr. WNBA aims to develop a life-long passion for the game of basketball by providing a support structure that not only encourages participation, but also makes the game fun and rewarding for players, coaches, officials and parents.

COMMUNITY ASSIST AWARD

The WNBA Community Assist Award was created to honor the WNBA Players that reflect the passion that the league and its players have for their communities. The WNBA will recognize one player in each of the 13 WNBA team markets with an offseason Community Assist Award. The WNBA will donate $500 in the name of each offseason award winner to the charity of her choice. Teams will be provided with WNBA Community Assist Award plaques to present to the winner during an on-court presentation at one of the teams' first three home games.

In June, July and August the WNBA will choose one player from across the league for the Community Assist Award and will donate $5,000 in the name of that player to the charity of her choice. On-court presentations to the winning player will also occur.

Past winners of WNBA Community Assist from the Charlotte Sting include Dawn Staley (June 2001), Andrea Stinson (2003-04 Offseason and September 2004) and Nicole Powell (July 2004).



Residents of Charlotte and the surrounding areas will welcome a new beacon to Uptown Charlotte in the fall of 2005. Featuring the latest technology, several premium seating options and situated in a prime uptown location, the New Charlotte Arena will showcase the style and rapid growth of the area.

Ceremonial groundblasting on July 29, 2003, signaled the beginning of construction on the arena, which spans nine acres and will be equivalent in volume to a 37-story building. With such a prominent spot in the Charlotte skyline, it was crucial for designers to relate the New Charlotte Arena to the character of the city. Thus, they have incorporated details such as the city's signature tree-lined sidewalks plus brick facades, exposed concrete, and steelwork reminiscent of historic textile mills and warehouses.

After entering into the four-story atrium, fans will move through the arena by way of concourse "streets," where they will find stylized galleries that serve as destinations for dining and interactive entertainment. These galleries incorporate different geographical and cultural themes of the Carolinas such as the Gold Rush Gallery, the Carolinas Marketplace and the Hoops Traditions Gallery. On top of all this – quite literally – is the Rock the Rooftop interactive area and the Flight Deck food court and city view terrace. And overlooking the Bobcats and Sting practice court, there will be an in-arena sports bar.

Between the galleries will be "streetscapes," featuring public art and additional imagery of the Carolinas. Through a partnership with the City of Charlotte, the Arts & Science Council initiated a search for artists to create artwork for the building's interior and exterior. More than 200 candidates answered the call, and five local, regional and national artists were selected to create artwork for the building's interior and exterior.

Much like their aesthetic efforts, arena developers are going above and beyond most NBA facilities by providing Wi-Fi, or wireless fidelity, capabilities throughout the building. This technology will allow fans to access real-time statistics, trivia games and instant replays. With its wireless infrastructure, the New Charlotte Arena will blend traditional elements with incredible technology, ranging from flat-panel LCD television screens to high-definition LED signage displays. The signature icon of the new arena will be a state-of-the-art scoreboard, which will revolutionize not only the appearance of future scoreboards but will be groundbreaking in its use of high-definition video and theatrical special effects.

The New Charlotte Arena will be completed in time for the beginning of the Bobcats' second season in the fall of 2005 and the Sting's 2006 season. In addition, it will host a multitude of other events, more than 125 per year. Grandstands can be moved and floors reconfigured to lend itself to a variety of sports, including ice hockey or skating performances, horse shows and monster truck competitions. Acoustically, it will offer an ideal venue for musical performances, and dimensionally it can host a three-ring circus.

"The New Charlotte Arena offers design elements and comfort amenities that combine to create an entertainment venue unlike anything this region has seen before," said Barry Silberman, one of the most respected arena executives in the country and the person the Charlotte Bobcats hired to lead development of the arena.

"We want this to be a complete experience for the fan, so we worked carefully to assure terrific views, seats with extra legroom and a wide variety of restaurants and social areas for pregame and postgame gatherings," said Silberman, noting that the arena will have a team store and an interactive family arcade, plus a unique combination of seats and premium seating options and street-front retail.

Premium seating options are one more way that the facility is designed to accommodate Bobcats and Sting fans. The arena will include 10 Founder's Suites, 50 Uptown Suites, 37 Royal Boxes, 22 Terrace Tables and 2,600 courtside and baseline seats as part of its 19,026-person capacity. The lower bowl of the arena was designed to include premium seating options closer to the court than most arenas.

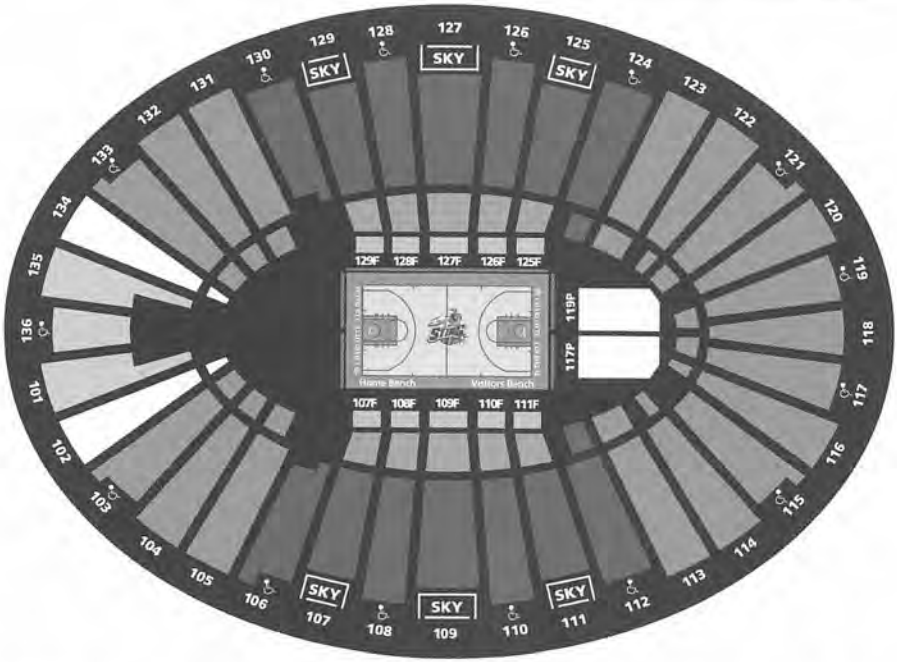
One of the arena's most distinctive features is its glass-walled practice court, visible inside from the lower concourse as well as outside from Fifth Street, providing passers-by a view of practices and team workouts.

Perhaps the most convenient aspect of the building is its location. Situated on Trade Street, between Fifth and Caldwell streets, the arena is just steps away from a variety of office buildings, restaurants and stores. For patrons a little further away, the building is close to existing transit stations and a light rail system is planned with a stop near the front entrance.

The extensive planning involved in the development of the arena ensures that it will be a lasting uptown landmark while maintaining the pride and beauty of the city of Charlotte.

"The Carolinas have long been known for their basketball tradition," said Silberman. "This new arena is a testament to that history. It also sets the course for the future of basketball in the Carolinas, giving the Bobcats and Sting, as well as college teams and tournaments, a state-of-the-art arena that is equally appealing to players and fans."

CHARLOTTE COLISEUM



The Charlotte Coliseum will serve one more year as the home of the Charlotte Sting. The Sting will play their 2005 season at the Coliseum before moving to the New Charlotte Arena beginning in 2006.

The Charlotte Coliseum opened in 1988 as one of the largest arenas in the nation. It remains Charlotte's largest entertainment venue seating 24,000 spectators for concerts and high-profile athletic events. The Coliseum pulls fans from across the country to see stars of the sports world. Home to the Sting for the past eight seasons, the Coliseum also served as the home court for the Charlotte Bobcats during their inaugural 2004-05 season. In addition, the venue has hosted the NCAA Men's Final Four, The NCAA Women's Final Four, ACC Tournaments and several other high-profile tournaments.

For 14 years, the Coliseum served as home the NBA Charlotte Hornets as well as hosting the AFL's Charlotte Rage and Carolina Cobras and several NHL exhibition games.

Driving Directions

From I-77: Take Exit 5 (Tyvola Road) of I-77 and head west on Tyvola following the directional signage. Take a right onto Yorkmont Road. The Yorkmont entrance will be the second street on the right, Hive Drive.

From I-85: Take Exit 33 (Billy Graham Pkwy.) off of I-85 and proceed east down Billy Graham to the Tyvola Road exit. Turn right onto Tyvola Road. Make a left onto Yorkmont Road. The Yorkmont entrance will be the second street on the right, Hive Drive.

The Charlotte Bobcats became the NBA's 30th franchise and ended their inaugural season in 2004-05 with an 18-64 record. Under the leadership of General Manager & Head Coach Bernie Bickerstaff, the team's first season was a success with stellar performances both individually and by the team.

The Bobcats opened their inaugural season against Washington on November 4 before a sellout crowd of 23, 319 at the Charlotte Coliseum and recorded their first-ever victory two nights later against Orlando with a 111-100 win on November 6. Charlotte recorded its first-ever road victory by defeating Houston 90-87 on December 22. In the process, the Bobcats swept an opponent for the first time, as they defeated the Rockets 101-100 in overtime at the Charlotte Coliseum on December 18.

Another milestone was reached on November 23 when the Bobcats defeated Detroit, 91-89, to become the first expansion team since 1970-71 to defeat the NBA's defending champion.

On the season, the Bobcats registered a season sweep over playoff qualifier Houston and won the season series over Southeast Division rivals Atlanta (3-1) and Orlando (3-1) and defending NBA Champion Detroit (2-1). The Bobcats also defeated 2005 playoff participants Miami, Sacramento and Denver. Charlotte was competitive throughout the season and had 21 games decided by three points or fewer, most in the NBA.

Emeka Okafor was the team's first-ever draft pick with the second overall pick in the 2004 NBA Draft and he capped off his first season with NBA Rookie of the Year honors. He posted double-doubles in 19 straight games from November 21 through January 1, the NBA's longest double-double streak by a rookie since 12-time NBA All-Star Elvin Hayes registered 60 in a row during the 1968-69 season. Okafor finished the season fourth in the NBA and first among rookies with 10.9 rebounds and 47 double-doubles, second in the league with 3.8 offensive rebounds and first among rookies with 15.1 points.

Primoz Brezec was a contender for the NBA Most Improved Player award as he averaged 13.0 points, 7.4 rebounds and shot .512 (14th in NBA) from the field in developing into a true post threat while Brevin Knight capably handled the point guard duties and placed second in the NBA with 9.0 assists, fifth with 2.0 steals and first with a 4.0 assists-to-turnover ratio.

The return of the team's key components, plus the addition of two lottery picks in the 2005 NBA Draft have the Bobcats poised for another step in 2005-06.
